

Touch & tell whispers

Can you lip-read?

Deaf people often lip-read to understand what people are saying.

Lip-readers look at a person's face, eyes and mouth to help them understand what is being said.

Try this game...

1. Stand in a circle and choose a child to start (child A).
2. Ask child A to walk over to another pupil (child B) in the circle and tap them on the shoulder.
3. Child A will mouth another classmate's name in silence to child B.
4. Child B needs to lip-read the name and go and tap the pupil who's name they think it is on their shoulder.
5. If they are correct, it is then child B's turn to go and chose someone in the circle and carry on the game!
